Generations at School: Building an Age-Friendly Learning Community

Presenter Suzette Lovely is an author and experienced administrator who has investigated how the generational perspectives of millennial teachers are likely to impact their long-term commitment to education. These and other findings from her research can help school administrators identify strategies that build understanding and collaboration among multi-generational staffs.

Dr. Lovely will discuss how to encourage school staffs to work collaboratively, accepting some of the new and blending some of the proven teaching strategies from the past into a 21st century curriculum that highlights creativity, collaboration, critical thinking, and communication (the 4Cs).

About the presenter
Dr. Suzette Lovely is the superintendent in the Carlsbad Unified School District. Prior to her arrival in Carlsbad in 2012, she spent 26 years as a teacher, principal, director, deputy superintendent, and acting superintendent in the Capistrano Unified School District, and three years as assistant superintendent of human resources in Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District. She is the author of three books and numerous journal articles on the topic of school leadership. In 2007, she and Austin Buffum co-wrote Generations at School: Building an Age-Friendly Learning Community.

This session is co-sponsored by the Sonoma County Office of Education (SCOE) and Sonoma County Association of School Administrators (SCASA).
